Cord Blood Banking Forum for Health Care Professionals

In response to a growing demand from parents for Cord Blood Banking services in Australia, Australian Stem Cell HealthCare is holding a forum for health care professionals.

Especially designed to meet the needs of general practitioners, obstetricians, nurses, midwives and childbirth educators; providing a unique opportunity to update your knowledge on autologus cord blood banking and exciting clinical developments in the stem cell arena.

Who should attend?

Health care professionals including general practitioners, obstetricians, nurses, midwives and child birth educators committed to woman-centred care and informed choice.

The evening will include

- ❖ A 45 minute presentation 'Cord Blood, Past, Present and Future' by our Medical Director, Associate Professor Mark Kirkland
- ❖ A question and answer session with Associate Professor Kirkland and Australian Stem Cell HealthCare staff

Presented by

Associate Professor Mark Kirkland

- ◆ One of Australia's foremost experts in cord blood technology
- ◆ A specialist haematologist with 26 years experience as a medical practitioner and over 30 years in stem cell research
- ◆ Member of the committee that developed the Australian (NPAAC) guidelines for Haematopoietic Stem Cells
